GREEN LINE CARMEN TO MEET OFFICIALS

Session in General Manager Schneider's Office This Evening to Avert Strike Going Into Effect Tomorrow Morning

The planned Green Line strike scheduled to go into effect at four o'clock tomorrow morning may be averted.

Arrangements were completed this afternoon to hold a conference at 7:30 o'clock this evening at the office of General Manager E. F. Schneider, Garfield Building, Cleveland. The meeting is at the instigation of company officials.

The motormen and conductors' representatives, President R. E. C. Moore, Frank Hull and Edward Gibson of Elyria, representing the western division and Howard Peat, Don Frank and "Queen" Eberly, representing the southern division, will be in attendance at the conference. Car men, by a vote of 65 to 59, turned down the company's offer of an increase to 41, 44 and 48 cents an hour and demand a straight sixty cents an hour wage. The present wage is 38, 40 and 42 cents an hour. The car men were set to put into effect the strike on schedule tomorrow and will carry out the strike unless a settlement is reached at the meeting tonight.

Superintendent J. A. Nester of the local division believes that the strike will be averted.

Now the residents in the suburbs of Elyria don't know where they are for tomorrow morning. Many don't know whether to get up early to see whether the cars are running or not.

The green line brings into this city many workmen from Aurora, Grafton, Oberlin and Ridgeville.

The strike may be settled or it may be in full swing when Elyrians awake tomorrow morning. Definite information will be available late tonight.

OVERLAND HEAD SAYS MEN ARE RETURNING TO WORK AT PLANT

Strikers Claimed to be Resuming Work—Says Company Has Been Fair.

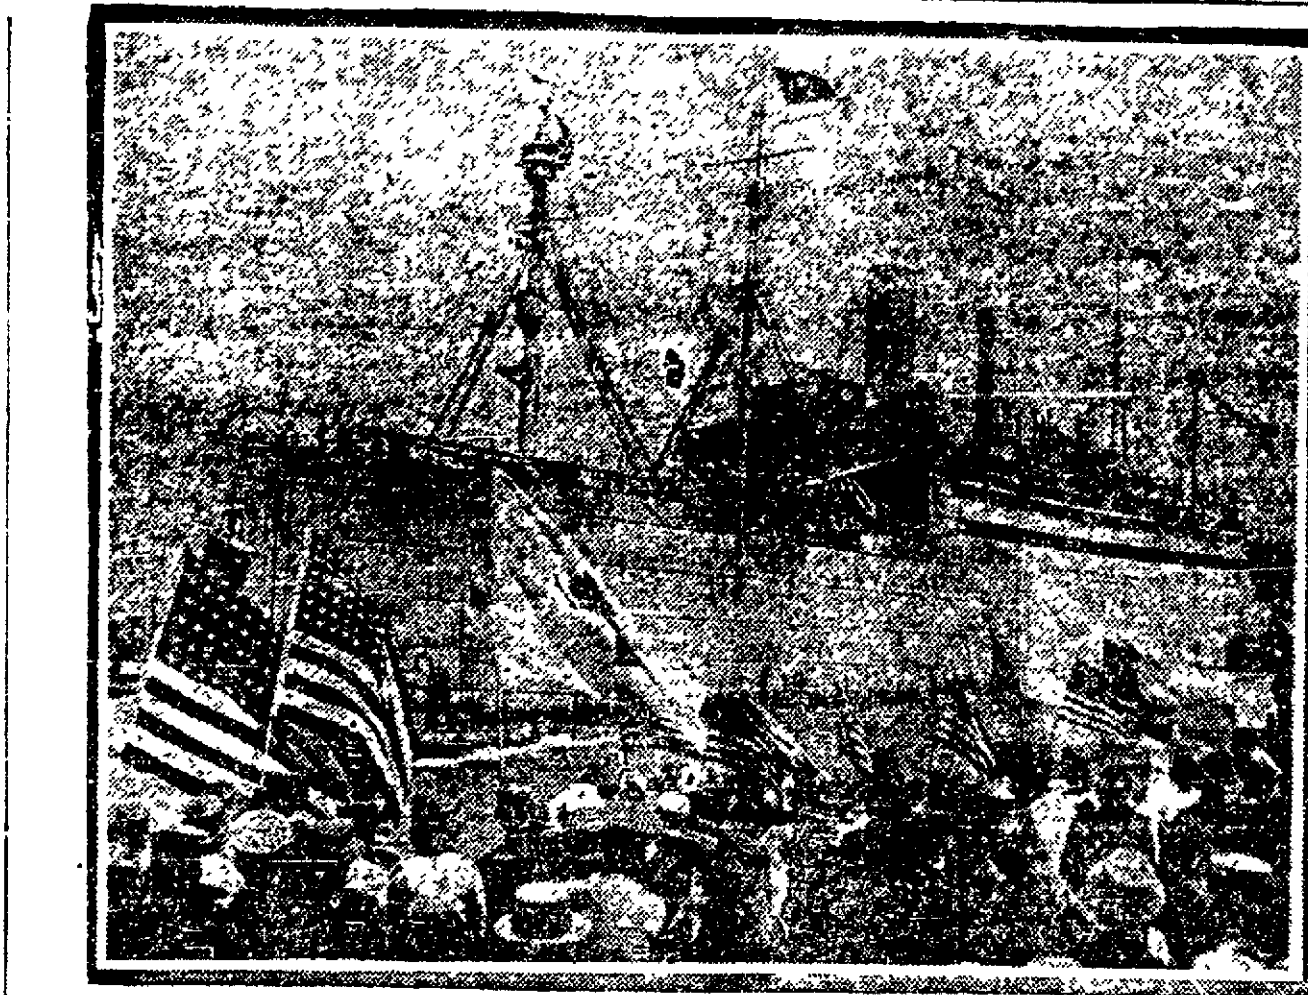

The Willis-Overland Co. through H. J. Edwards, Manager of the Elyria plant, makes the following statement today regarding conditions at the local plant:

In order that Willis-Overland employees and the public in Elyria may not be misled by rumors and false statements that have been circulated, it seems important that a definite statement of conditions here and at Toledo should be made.

The majority of the men in the Elyria Plant have been at work continuously. A large percent of those who walked out have since returned. These men have told us that they have found out for themselves, after being misled into walking out, that our new wage scale and 48 hour week are equal to or better than those in any other plant.

The position of the Company from the beginning has been so fair, and we have gone so far to be liberal in our treatment of employees that it is

ISSUE MEDALS TO SOLDIERS; REWARD MOTHER

Parent of Soldier Who Died in Service to be Rewarded.

The Chamber of Commerce are still issuing medals to returned soldiers that are the gift of the city. Thus far they have secured the name and addresses of 150 men of whom no former record had been secured.

Every man was checked up as he secured his medal and in that way the new names were secured. Questionnaires are now being sent them so as to have their military record preserved and later published. Written Mayor Jones asking if one lady from Columbia has written Mayor Jones asking if she would be entitled to one. Her son was downed while in the service. She will be sent one with a gold star on the ribbon.

Says Husband Used Her For a Punching Bag

Extreme cruelty is alleged in a petition filed in court today by Carol Robinson of Oberlin, against John Robinson.

She alleges that she has been used as a punching bag by her husband who has knocked her down when ever he felt like it. He has left her on several occasions and she has to support herself meanwhile. He returned at one time and she gave him $70 to visit his Alma Mater at Willoughby, and he became angry when he sent for more money and she could not give it to him. A divorce and alimony is asked for.

'MUTT' SLOW IN RECOVERING FROM FOURTH OF JULY SHOCK

"Mutt," municipal owned alligator, reposing in the city park fountain, is having a hard time recovering from the effects of the Fourth of July celebration here.

The national salute was fired over the fountain last Friday. "Mutt" was asleep on the log when the first shot was fired. He evidently thought an earthquake had come. He raised himself in a hurry, even forgetting to blink first and gave under the fountain. It was four hours before he took a chance on the outer world again.

Although "Mutt" only eats one pound of hamburger steak weekly the Fourth of July shock took away his appetite for now he refuses to eat and looks on everything with an eye of suspicion.

Of course there is no chance of "Mutt" starving himself to death. During the colder months of the year he hibernates without anything to eat and has gone as long as eight months without the semblance of food. "Mutt" can feed upon his own body fats for a few more weeks while he is recuperating from the shock.

The baby alligator, however, refused to heed "Mutt's" beckoning to flee for safety and the more shots that were fired the higher it raised its head in making a circuit survey to see what was happening.

Hail Stones as Big as Oranges Fell in Elyria

SOME HAIL FELL YESTERDAY AND BROUGHT BACK STORM OF 19 YEARS AGO.

During the big storm yesterday it hailed for a short time. Some one got busy and began to look up the big hail storm that visited this city years ago, and found that it was nineteen years ago to a day.

People who have come to this city to live since that event look at the older times with disapproving eyes when they are told that hail stones as big as baseballs and oranges fell here. Tin roofs were punctured, and window glass smashed, much damage being done. Rudy Pfundt has a picture of some of the hail stones with their dimensions that he places on exhibition and keeps to prove that he is not a prevaricator when someone doubts his word.

MAN CAPTURED HERE CHARGED WITH ROBBERY IN CLEVELAND

Former Lorain Man Pointed Out by Three Persons as One of Hold-ups

James "Tip" O'Neil was to appear before Police Judge Selzer at Cleveland on a charge of robbery Friday, following identification of him by three witnesses Thursday afternoon as one of the five robbers who looted the West Cleveland Banking company of $65,000, June 15.

Miss Lucille Shurkey and Earl L. Stafford, teller and cashier of the bank agreed in pointing out O'Neil as one of the men. Mrs. Mamie Parnall, an occupant of the Franklin apartments, Franklin avenue and W. 57th street told Deputy Inspector Sterling she had seen him enter a suite in the Franklin, believed by police to have been the bandits' rendezvous.

O'Neil was arrested at the Andover hotel early Wednesday morning by Elyria police.

Prior to six years ago he was a saloonkeeper at Lorain.

CITY PROBLEMS DISCUSSED BY KIWANIS CLUB

Boulevard From Elyria to Lorain Encouraged—Pick Committee.

The Kiwanis Club held a very interesting meeting at noon yesterday, at which time they discussed local conditions of interest to the general public.

The yellow line franchise came up for a general discussion, and a vote was finally taken in which the members expressed themselves as favoring the Second St. and West Ave. route.

The boulevard from Elyria to Lorain along the yellow line was also discussed. James C. Smith, gave a talk and explained the advantage that would accrue to the city by such a route being opened up. A committee was finally appointed to go further into the question and report back to the club.

The boulevard question has been discussed on several occasions. The idea should not be allowed to die, for it is one of the best suggestions that has yet been made towards not only improving the city, but as a genuine ornament and convenience to the thousands of motorists that would use that route.

American Oil Companies Would Protect Workers in Mexico.

Washington, July 11—Representatives of American oil companies operating in Mexico are said to have asked the state department to request permission of the Mexican government for their employees in Mexico to arm themselves for protection against bandits. Two other requests have been made, one for the use of airplanes in transporting money to the oil field to pay their men and the other that the United States government insist upon the revocation of the decree prohibiting the drilling of new oil wells in Mexico.

NEW CHECK LAW WENT INTO EFFECT TODAY; PROTECT BANKS

OFFENSE NOW TO WRITE CHECK IN EXCESS TO BANK BALANCE

Cleveland, N. O. O'Rourke, a former Elyrian whose bank balance have dwindled down to only a few dollars and who think they can "stall off" their pet creditor by tendering a check in excess of their deposit are in danger of finding themselves facing a felony charge after today. For the new state law making just such action a felony is in effect.

The law is strict. It provides that the mere making out and sending of a check when there is not sufficient funds in the bank to cover it, furnishes a prima facie presumption that there is evidence to defraud. And that is felony, the law says.

For the past few years he has been in the office at the Harshaw, Fuller & Goodwin Co. He was a quiet home- and family-loving man, who commanded the respect of a large circle of friends who sympathize with his loved ones in their bereavement.

ICE CREAM FREEZERS GOING FAST HERE, DEALERS REPORT

INCREASE IN PRICE OF ICE CREAM RESULTS IN PEOPLE MAKING OWN CREAM

Local hardware dealers declared today that the demand this year for ice cream freezers has been unusually heavy, especially since the first of the month when the price of ice cream advanced one dollar on a five gallon can, wholesale price, with a proportionate increase to the consumer.

Ice cream at one local store advanced from 28 to 32 cents a pint. Brick ice cream is selling for seventy cents a quart. At Alliance the other day a storm of protest was raised because the price of ice cream was advanced to fifty cents a quart at least fifteen cents cheaper than in Elyria.

Farmers are not purchasing as many ice cream freezers this year as usual, due to the fact that little or no natural ice was available last winter for storage.

The city residents are more than making up for rural folks. Several local dealers have been compelled to place a second order for ice cream freezers this summer.

During the recent hot spell dealers state that the entire supply of refrigerators in the city was sold out.

ever, of reserving it for special explanation on another occasion.

The role which America was to play in the conference seemed determined as I have said, before my colleagues and I got to Paris—determined by the universal expectation of the nations whose representatives drawn from all quarters of the globe we were to deal with. It was universally recognized that America had entered the war to promote no private or peculiar interest of her own, but only as the champion of right, which she was glad to share with free men and lovers of justice everywhere. We had formulated the principles upon which the settlement was to be made—the principles upon which the armistice had been agreed to and the parleys of peace undertaken—and no one doubted that our desire was to see the treaty of peace formulated along the actual lines of those principles—and desired nothing else.

Welcomed as Friends

We were welcomed as disinterested friends. We were escorted to as arbiters in many a difficult matter. I was recognized that our material aid would be indispensable in the days to come, when industry and credit would have to be brought back to their normal operation again and communities beaten to the ground assisted to their feet once more, and it was taken for granted, I am proud to say, that we would play the helpful friend in these things as in all others, without prejudice or favor.

We were generously accepted as the unaffected champions of what was right. It was a very responsible role to play; but I am happy to report that the fine group of Americans who helped with their expert advice in each part of the varied settlement sought in every transaction to justify the high confidence reposed in them.

And that confidence, it seems to me, is the measure of our opportunity; and of our duty in the days to come in which the new hope of the peoples of the world is to be fulfilled or disappointed.

The fact that America is the friend of the nations, whether they be rivals or associates, is no new fact. It is only the discovery of it by the rest of the world that is new.

America may be said to have just reached her majority as a world power. It was almost exactly 25 years ago that the results of the war with Spain put us unexpectedly in possession of rich islands on the other side of the world and brought us into association with governments in the control of the West Indies. It was regarded by a sinister and ominous thing by the statesmen of more than one European chancellery that we should have extended our power beyond the confines of our continental dominions. They were accustomed to

Case of Cuba.

But we have not exploited them. We have been their friends and have sought to serve them. And our ambition has been a menace to no other nation. We redeemed our honor to the utmost in our dealings with Cuba. She is weak but absolute. Free, and it is her trust in us that makes her free. Weak peoples everywhere stand ready to give us any authority among them that will assure them a like friendly oversight in direction. They know that there is no ground for fear in receiving us, their mentors and guides. Our isolation was ended 20 years ago; and no fear of us is ended also, our counsel and association sought after and desired. There can be no question of our ceasing to be a world power. The only question is whether we can refuse the moral leadership that is offered us, whether we shall accept or reject the confidence of the world.

The war and the conference of peace now sitting in Paris seem to me to have answered that question. Our participation in the war established our position among the nations and nothing but our own mistake of action can alter it. It was not an accident or a matter of sudden choice that we are no longer isolated and devoted to a policy which has only our own interest and advantage for its object.

It was our duty to go in, if we were indeed the champions of liberty and of right. We answered to the call of duty in a way so spirited, so utterly without thought of what we spared blood or treasure, so effective, so worthy of the admiration of true men everywhere, so wrought out of the stuff of all that was heroic, that the whole world saw at last in the flesh the noble action, a great ideal asserted and vindicated by a nation they had deemed material and now found to be composed of the spiritual forces that must free men of every nation from every unworthy bondage.

It is thus that a new role and new responsibility have come to the great nation that we honor and which we would all wish to lift to yet higher levels of service and achievement.

The stage is set, the destiny disclosed. It has come about by no plan of our conceiving but by the hand of God who led us into this way. We can not turn back. We can only go forward, with lifted eyes and freshened spirit to follow the vision.

It was of this that we dreamed at our birth. America shall in truth show the way. The light streams upon the path ahead, and nowhere else.

LONG-WEAR

Automobile TIRES

Note letter from the General Supply Company, of Atlanta, Ga., written to the Standard Motor Sales Company, of San Antonio, Texas, in response to an inquiry received from the Standard Motor Sales regarding Long-Wear Tires:

Standard Motor Sales Co.,
San Antonio, Texas.

Gentlemen—In regard to the Long-Wear Tire, would say that we regard same without a doubt the best automobile casing on the market today; a strong and sweeping statement we admit, but we find that it has all the high grade qualities possessed by other tires, together with several exclusive features not found in other makes, namely:

- (1) All round cushion, resulting in resiliency, easy riding and long-wear.
- (2) Pure gum tie strip between the carcass and tread, making separation at this point an unknown factor.
- (3) A tread so tough that it wears like a band of steel.

We find that if these points are brought to the attention of the buyer it is a very easy matter to sell him, and once a buyer always a user. We have never lost a customer. We have a test demonstrating the toughness of Long-Wear tread, that so far we have found no other tire except Long-Wear will stand same.

The service a user obtains from Long-Wear Tires is something wonderful. It is so good that we always welcome a test with any other tire on a cost per mile basis. As to adjustments, we hardly know the meaning of the word. However, we have always found the Long-Wear Rubber Company absolutely fair and liberal in their methods of doing business and a company that will back their product to the limit.

In conclusion would say that any one taking Long-Wear Tires either as a dealer or a user will never regret the step and will soon become a Long-Wear booster.

Very truly yours,
GENERAL SUPPLY COMPANY.

(Signed) J. F. BAXTER, Vice-President

impossible to go farther and meet the keen competition of this industry.

In the face of that fact, talk of compromise and further negotiations by those radical leaders who have been responsible for this strike is so unfair that it is obviously spread merely to mislead the public and those men who want to work. An attempt was made in Wednesday evening's paper to discredit the 50-50 plan. It is well known by every man employed here that the 50-50 Division of Profits was paid the first quarter and it certainly is obvious to every intelligent man that there could not possibly be any profits to divide in the second quarter when the large part of that period has been one of greatly reduced production and high cost, due to the very labor condition brought about by the strikers. The company has always been fair to every man in its employ and has always kept its promises, and the very character of the attack made by some of the irresponsible labor leaders shows us clearly their lack of fairness and that the attack needs no answer.

They have even tried to make Elyria workmen believe that the Training School established in Toledo by the Company, to enable men to become skilled mechanics by working at the Company's expense, is an effort to hire school children. Such statements are so ridiculous that they cannot have any weight with fair-minded men.

Other statements made by these agitators regarding conditions at Toledo have been equally misleading. To correct these statements I want to quote the following interview given out in Toledo Wednesday by Clarence A. Earl, First Vice President, Willis-Overland Company:

"Labor conditions are rapidly becoming normal. Many departments already are filled. Others soon will be. Several hundred more men are returning every day besides many thousands already working. More than a thousand additional men returned in the past three days.

"Far more important than the number of employees, however, is the wonderful spirit of cooperation and enthusiasm that is showing up everywhere.

Every day since we started, production has shown a steady increase in the number of cars shipped. Conditions in this respect are progressing even more rapidly than we could have hoped.

The thing that pleases us more than anything else is to have such a large number of returning employees, especially those who have been working elsewhere voluntarily tell us that they now have found out for themselves that our present wage scale and 48 hour working week are better than they have been able to find elsewhere."

REPORT OF LAKESIDE FEDERATION BY MISS. S. H. SQUIRE

The Lakeside Federation of Women's clubs celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary on the 8th and 10th of July at Lakeside, Ohio, with one of the most successful and entertaining conventions that has ever been held by that organization.

The headquarters are as usual, at the Lakeside hotel and the sessions held in the auditorium.

The convention opened at 9:30 o'clock on Wednesday morning with Mrs. Otis Peabody of Oberlin, president of the Federation, in the chair. After the singing of "America," prayer was offered by Mrs. Mary Motley of Oak Harbor. Mrs. A. B. Jones then extended a welcome on behalf of Lakeside and Mrs. Edgar Thierwacker of Oak Harbor responded for the Federation. After the reports of officers, presentation of programs, appointing of committees, etc., the address for the morning was given by Miss Susan Hinman of Oberlin. Her subject, "Historical Parallels," was masterfully treated and brought to mind many interesting parallels between the events of the great world war and other great wars of the past.

The Wednesday afternoon program opened with a violin solo by Miss Helen Allyn of Cleveland. This was followed by the president's address. As the keynote of the whole convention was "Reconstruction," Mrs. Peabody took that for the theme of her address. She began by saying that since the last meeting of the Federation four events of far more than ordinary importance have happened. First: The ending of the great world war; second, the victory of prohibition; third, the successful crossing of the Atlantic ocean by aeroplane, and fourth, the granting of the right of franchise to women. If such events, coming in quick succession, did not call for the greatest reconstructive efforts, she knew of nothing that would, and she pointed out that woman's part in the war had been no small one, so in peace she would bear an equally heavy share. She expressed the wish that the Lakeside Federation would, in this as in all other important movements in the past, bear an active and responsible part.

Her talk was full of inspiration and enthusiasm. After readings from Van Dyke, Robert Service and other modern poets by Mrs. Flora Haroff Andrews of Cleveland, the president introduced Mr. H. E. Simon (probation officer) of Toledo, who spoke on "Court of Domestic Relations." Among other things she said that the juvenile court and court of domestic relations were practically one and the same thing, one being for little boys and girls and the other for boys and girls grown up. She stated that there were two reasons why our work among the less fortunate classes of people, both Americans and foreign born, was first that we hadn't yet a broad enough sympathy and secondly that we had not sufficient patience.

The closing address for the afternoon was given by Prof. D. R. Moore of the history department of Oberlin college. His subject, "America's International Relationships." He brought out some interesting views that are entertained by the foreigners of America, some of the nations regarding us very differently from the way we regard ourselves.

In the evening Mrs. Nancy Basil Clark of New York, who spent eleven years in Germany and three in Belgium just before and after the outbreak of the war, spoke instead of Mrs. Beatrice Forbes Robertson

Hale, who, on account of passport trouble, is still in England.

Mrs. Clark heard King Albert of Belgium read the proclamation to the Belgians, saying that it was essential for Germany to use Belgium as a highway to reach France, and when beheld reading the proclamation, indignantly he spoke, "This thing shall never be." She also saw the entrance of the German troops into Antwerp, and angry and grieved as she was (for until the invasion of Belgium she had loved the Germans) she knew that she was looking upon the greatest military force in the whole world. Her description of the German division was wonderful.

On Thursday morning after the opening exercises the reports of the various committees were heard. The credential committee reported that there were twenty-four delegates, four alternates and one hundred registered guests attending the convention.

The nominating committee presented the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Flora Haroff Andrews, Cleveland Sorosis; vice president, Mrs. W. F. Dager, Lorain Sorosis; secretary, Miss Rebecca Lullman Danbury, Lakeside Noon-day club; treasurer, Mrs. Follock Huron Study club; auditor, Mrs. S. H. Squire, Elyria Ninety-Five club.

After a reading, "The Twelve Pound Look" by Mrs. Flora Haroff Andrews, Mrs. Helen Eldredge of Bombay, India, gave a most interesting address on "Kashmir" and its environs. She spoke of their various modes of travel, of their living in house boats in the mountain streams during the hot part of the year, and several times alluded to "luck of the road" as spoken of by Rudyard Kipling. The morning session closed with "Greetings for the State Federation" by Mrs. Premice Rood of Toledo, president of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs.

Instead of the regular afternoon session the federation adjourned to Hotel Lakeside, where a delicious luncheon was served to one hundred and fifty women.

It being the twenty-fifth anniversary of the club, each guest received a dainty souvenir of the occasion. It was a folder with a picture of the "Steamship Arrow" on the outside. The list of speakers was inside and the names of all the past presidents on the back.

Mrs. Selover of Cleveland acted as toastmistress and the following responded: "Looking Backward," Mrs. Kelly of Sandusky; "After Twenty-Five Years," Mrs. Sloan, Port Clinton; "The Lakeside Fed-

"BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN"

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did
For Ohio Woman.

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularities, pains in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around to do my work, and as I had four in my family and three boarders it made it very hard for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. It is certainly the best medicine for women's ailments I ever saw."—Mrs. SARA SHAW, R. No. 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. Shaw proved the merit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order that other suffering women may find relief as she did.

Women who are suffering as she was should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice in regard to such ailments write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its forty years experience is at your service.

A Message to the Housewives of Elyria

In our fifteen years of experience in the meat business, we have discovered that the secret of success in that business depends wholly upon the grade of meat handled, namely, "THE BEST GRADE OF MEAT GIVES THE GREATEST SATISFACTION." For instance—You could have a piece of meat given to you for nothing and if it is tough, stale or hasn't any flavor you will think—after trying to eat it that it wasn't worth the labor spent in preparing it. But on the other hand "IF YOU BUY MEAT THAT IS FRESH, TENDER AND JUICY—no matter what the cost—the praise you will receive from the family will make you feel that the purchase was justified.

We are located in THE ELYRIA SANITARY MARKET and by careful and judicious buying, in conjunction with selling for cash—no costs for ice on account of our modern refrigerating system and the large volume of business we do, which allows us to work on a small margin of profit, we are "ABLE TO PUT AT YOUR DISPOSAL THE BEST THE MARKET AFFORDS IN THE MEAT LINE AT MODERATE PRICES." WALDORF-SNYDER WEDDING

Last evening saw the culmination of a very happy romance which started two and one-half years ago, when Miss Mary Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Snyder of Lodi street, became the bride of Russell Waldorf of Fifth street.

Simplicity marked the appointments of this pretty home wedding which was witnessed by only the immediate families and a few intimate friends.

Promptly at 8:30 to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Helen Smith, the bride and groom, together with their attendants, Miss Margaret Snyder and Allen Coven, took their places in the living room, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Giant, assisted by Rev. Burner. The room was prettily decorated with Killarney roses and sweet peas.

The bride wore a beautiful yet simple costume of beaded georgette crepe and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Her bridesmaid was also gowned in white georgette crepe and carried pink sweet peas.

Immediately following the ceremony a sumptuous wedding supper was served to the 22 guests. The table was beautifully decorated with pink sweetpeas and sweetheart roses the color scheme of the decorations being carried out in pink and hite. Assisting in the dining room were Miss Dorothy Day and Mrs. A. Gilbert.

Mr. Waldorf, who returned about three months ago from service overseas is a valued employee of the Savings Deposit Banking & Trust company and an active member of the Church of Christ. Mrs. Waldorf has been a teacher in the public schools for the last three years and is actively connected with the First Congregational church. Both young people are enthusiastic C. Y. workers and have a host of friends throughout the county and state who extend to them their heartiest wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldorf will be at home to their friends after July 20 at their newly furnished home at 419 West Sixth street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Spooner and son Harold and Miss Bertha Donovan of Cleveland were the only out of town guests.

W. C. A.

Last night fifty-five girls of the Industrial Federation of the Y. W. C. A. enjoyed bathing and a picnic supper at Glen's Beach. It was seven-thirty by the time the girls were out of the water and they all did justice to the plentiful supper ready for them in the pavilion. Afterwards the party became rather broken up, some of the girls going to Century to dance and a few of them remaining at Glen's to roller skate.

There will be a Federation party at the Y. W. C. A. next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. Further announcements will be made later.

Miss Grace Haines of Elyria, a student at Kent normal school, entertained the students on Wednesday at chapel with a group of songs, "A Summer Song" by d. H. On Sunday morning Miss Haines will sing "Before the Crucifix" by La Forge, at the Kent Congregational church and in the evening she will sing at the Christian Endeavor meeting at the Church of Christ.

Cure for the Reckless

Ohio laws provide as part of the punishment for careless driving of autos that the offending driver may be prevented for a specified time from driving a car at any place in the state. The car license is not revoked, but the privilege of driving is taken away from the driver while he is retained under the jurisdiction of the court. The order of the court lays the driver liable to severe penalties if he disregards the court injunction. Recently one Ohio court put that law into execution and one former auto driver will not preside at the steering wheel for the next six months.

That provision of the law seems sound. It has worked well in other lands, where the driver and the car alike have the license revoked for a period, the police taking charge of the car for the time. It might be tried oftener in this state, for many people believe it has merit and would bring good results. It might be the part of wisdom for officials to add that penalty in cases that show extreme carelessness or malignant disregard of the rights of others.

The United States Wheat Director announces that hereafter the government's guaranteed price of wheat at Galveston and New Orleans will be from $2.28 to $2.30 a bushel. This action is taken, it is said, "to encourage shipments of wheat from gulf ports." It will also act as a further discouragement of the people's hope that they will ever have cheaper bread.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Storm Ties Up Interurban Lines.
Marion, O., July 11.—Traffic on the Columbus, Delaware and Marion Traction company, the Columbus, Marion and Bucyrus interurban line and the local streetcar system was tied up as a result of a breakdown at the local power plant and the high tension wires from Straford, near Delaware, being put out of commission by a terrific storm. Cedar Point, O., July 11.—The Lake Erie Fish Producers' association, at its annual summer convention here, branded as confiscatory the McKellar bill pending in congress to tax fish in cold storage from 2 to 10 cents a pound. Columbus, July 11.—Henderson Bands, 38, found guilty by a jury a month ago of murdering Homer R. Day, a Lancaster taxicab driver, near Shadyside, Feb. 10 last, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary. Bands was convicted for first degree murder but the jury recommended mercy.

SPLENDID WAY TO EDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

There is perhaps no one thing that so plainly shows the passing of our youth as the horrible tendency to put on too much weight after we have reached the age of 25 or 30 years. How ever young our faces may appear, this sagging flabby figure and forty foot waist gives us away.

The cause of this over-fulness is that our stomachs cannot get enough oxygen in the blood to produce a proper combustion to destroy the excess fatty tissue. Fat people will be pleased to learn of a simple home method that is wonderfully efficient in reducing weight quickly and easily without a starving diet, violent massage or strenuous exercise. Go to any drug store and get a box of Phynola, take five grains after each meal and at bed time. This treatment will often give quick relief from overburdening fat. Phynola taken at meal time assists the stomach in giving you the benefit of the food you eat. At the same time dissolves the fatty tissue from any part of the body where there is excessive fat. By this method many have reduced their weight a pound a day and there is no flabbiness left. J. A. Albert can supply you with the genuine Phynola at a small cost.—Advertisement

WILSON UPHOLDS WORLD LEAGUE

Without It Peace Treaty Would Be Worthless, He Says.

MAKES APPEAL TO THE SENATE

League of Nations Held by the President to Be Mankind's Only Hope. Moral Leadership of the World Offered to America, He Adds.—Text of His Address Before the United States Senate.

Washington, July 11.—President Wilson, in presenting the peace treaty and the league of nations to the senate, spoke as follows: Gentlemen of the Senate.

The treaty of peace with Germany was signed at Versailles on the 28th of June. I avail myself of the earliest opportunity to lay the treaty before you for ratification and to inform you with regard to the work of the conference by which that treaty was formulated.

The treaty constitutes nothing less than a world settlement. It would not be possible for me either to summarize or to construe its manifold provisions in an address which must of necessity be something less than a treatise. My services and all the information I possess will be at your disposal and at the disposal of your committee on foreign relations at any time either informally or in session, as you may prefer, and I hope that you will not hesitate to make use of them. I shall at this time, prior to your own study of the document, attempt only a general characterization of its scope and purpose.

In one sense, no doubt, there is no need that I should report to you what was attempted and done at Paris. You have been daily cognizant of what was going on there—the problems with which the peace conference had the restoration of right and the assurance of liberty everywhere that the effects of the settlement were to be felt. We entered the war as the disinterested champions of right and we interested ourselves in the terms of the peace in no other capacity.

The hopes of the nations allied against the central powers were at a very low ebb when our soldiers began to pour across the sea. There was everywhere amongst them, except in their stoutest spirits, a sombre foreboding of disaster. The war ended in November, eight months ago, but you have only to recall what was feared in midsummer last, four short months before the armistice, to realize what it was that our timely aid accomplished alike for their morale and their physical safety.

That first, never-to-be-forgotten action at Chateau-Thierry had already taken place. Our redoubtable soldiers and marines had already closed the gap the enemy had succeeded in opening for their advance upon Paris—had already turned the tide of battle back toward the frontiers of France and begun the rout that was to save Europe and the world. Thereafter the Germans were to be always forced back, back, were never to thrust successfully forward again. And yet there was no confident hope.

Moral Force in Struggle.
Anxious men and women, leading spirits of France, attended the celebration of the Fourth of July last year in Paris out of generous courtesy—with no heart for festivities; little zest for hope. But they came away with something new at their hearts. They have themselves told us. The mere sight of our men—of their vigor, of their confidence that showed itself in every movement of their stalwart figures and every turn of their swiftness of march, in their steady comprehending eyes and easy discipline, in the indomitable air that added spirit to everything they did—made everyone who saw them that memorable day realize that something had happened that was much more than a mere incident in the fighting, something very different from the mere arrival of fresh troops.

A great moral force had flung itself into the struggle. The fine physical force of those spirited men spoke of something more than bodily vigor. They carried the great ideals of a free people at their hearts and with that vision were unconquerable. Their very presence brought reassurance; their fighting made victory certain.

They were recognized as crusaders, and as their thousands swelled to millions, their strength was seen to mean salvation. And they were fit men to carry such a hope and make good the assurance it forecast. Finer men never went into battle; and their officers were worthy of them. This is not the occasion upon which to utter a eulogy of the armies America sent to France, but perhaps, since I am speaking of their mission, I may speak also of the pride I shared with every American who saw or dealt with them.

They were the sort of men America would wish to be represented by, the sort of men every American would wish to claim as fellow countrymen and comrades in a great, great cause. They were terrible in battle, and gentle and helpful out of it, remembering the mothers and the sisters, the wives and the little children at home. They were free men under arms, not forgetting their ideals of duty in the midst of tasks of violence. I am proud to have had the privilege of being associated with them and of calling myself their leader.

What They Stood For.
But I speak now of what they meant to the men by whose sides they fought and to the people with whom they mingled with such utter simplicity, as friends who asked only to be of service. They were for all the visible embodiment of America. What they did made America and all that she stood for, a living reality in the thought, not only of the people of France, but also of tens of millions of men and women throughout all the toiling nations of a world standing everywhere in peril of its freedom and of the loss of everything it held dear, in deadly fear that its bonds were never to be loosed, its hopes forever to be mocked and disappointed.

And the compulsion of what they stood for was upon us who represent America at the peace table. It was our duty to see to it that every direction we took part in contributed, so far as we were able to influence it, to quiet the fears and realize the hopes of the people who had been living in that shadow, the nations that had come by our assistance to their freedom. It was our duty to do everything that it was within our power to do to make the triumph of freedom, and of right a lasting triumph, in the assurance of which men might everywhere live without fear.

Old Obstacles in the Way.
Old entanglements of every kind stood in the way—promises which governments had made to one another in the days when might and right were confused and the power of the victor was without restraint. Engagements which contemplated any dispossession of territory, any extensions of sovereignty that might seem to be to the interest of those who had been entered into without thought of what the peoples concerned might wish or profit by, and these could not be honorably brushed aside.

It was not easy to graft the new order of ideas on the old, and some of the fruits of the grafting may, I fear, for a time be bitter. But, with very few exceptions, the men who sat with us at the peace table desired as sincerely as we did to get away from the bad influences, the illegitimate purposes, the demoralizing ambitions, the ill councils and expedients out of which the sinister designs of Germany had sprung as a natural growth.

It had been our privilege to formulate the principles which were accepted as the basis of the peace, but they had been accepted, not because we had come in to hasten and assure the victory and insisted upon them, but because they were readily accepted to as the principles to which honorable and enlightened minds everywhere had been bred. They spoke the conscience of America, and I am happy to pay my tribute of respect and gratitude to the able, forward-looking men with whom it was my privilege to co-operate for their unflinching spirit of co-operation, their constant effort to accommodate the interests they represented to the principles we were all agreed upon. The difficulties which were many, lay in the circumstances, not often in the men. Almost without exception the men who led had caught the true and full vision of the problem of peace as an indivisible whole, a problem, not of mere adjustments of interest, but of justice and right action.

The atmosphere in which the conference worked seemed created, not by the ambitions of strong governments, but by the hopes and aspirations of small nations and of peoples hitherto under bondage to the power that victory had shattered and destroyed. Two great empires have been forced into political bankruptcy, and we were the receivers. Our task was not only to make peace with the central empires and remedy the wrongs their armies had done. The central empires had lived in open violation of many of the very rights for which the war had been fought, dominating, alien peoples over whom they had no natural right to rule, enforcing not obedience but veritable bondage, exploiting those who were weak for the benefit of those who were masters and overlords only by force of arms. There could be no peace until the whole order of central Europe was set right.

New Nations Created.
That means that new nations were to be created—Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary itself. No part of ancient Poland had ever in any true sense become a part of Germany, or of Austria, or of Russia. Bohemia was alien in every thought and hope to the monarchy of which she had so long been an artificial part; and the uneasy partnership between Austria and Hungary had been one rather of interest than of kinship or sympathy. The Slavs whom Austria had chosen to force into her empire on the south were kept to their obedience by nothing but fear. Their hearts were with their kinsmen in the Balkans. These were all arrangements of power, not arrangements of natural union or association. It was the imperative task of those who would make peace and make it intelligently to establish a new order, which would rest upon the free choice of peoples rather than on the arbitrary authority of Hapsburgs or Hohenzollerns.

More than that, great populations bound by sympathy and actual kin to Roumania were also linked against their will to the conglomerate Austro-Hungarian monarchy or to other alien sovereignties, and it was part of the task of peace to make a new Roumania as well as a new Slavic state clustering about Serbia.

And to natural frontiers could be found to the new fields of adjustment and readjustment. It was necessary to look constantly forward to other related tasks. The German colonies were to be disposed of. They had not been governed; they had been exploited merely, without thought of the interest or even the ordinary human rights of their inhabitants.

The Turkish empire, moreover, had fallen apart, as the Austro-Hungarian had. It had never had any real unity. It had been held together only by pitiless, inhuman force. Its peoples cried aloud for release, for succor from unspeakable distress, for all that the new day of hope seemed at last to bring with its dawn. Peoples hitherto in utter darkness were to be led out into the same light and given at last a helping hand. Undeveloped peoples and peoples ready for recognition but not yet ready to assume the full responsibilities of statehood were to be given adequate guarantees of friendly protection, guidance and assistance.

And out of the execution of these great enterprises of liberty sprang opportunities to attempt what statesmen had never found the way before to do: an opportunity to throw safeguards about the rights of racial, national and religious minorities by solemn international covenant, an opportunity to limit and regulate military establishments where they were most likely to be mischievous; an opportunity to effect a complete and systematic internationalization of waterways and railways which were necessary to the free economic life of more than one nation and to clear many of the normal channels of commerce of unfair obstructions of law or of privilege and the very welcome opportunity to secure for labor the concerted protection of principle and practice.

These were not tasks which the conference looked about to find and went out of its way to perform. They were inseparable from the settlements of peace. They were thrust upon it by circumstances which could not be overlooked. The war had created them. In all quarters of the world old established relationships had been disturbed or broken, and affairs were at loose ends, needing to be mended or united again, but could not be made what they were before. They had to be set right by applying some uniform principle of justice or enlightened expediency, and they could not be adjusted by merely prescribing in a treaty what should be done. New states were to be set up which could not hope to live through their first period of weakness without assured support by the great nations that had consented to their creation and won for them their independence. If governed colonies could not be put in the hands of governments which were to act as trustees for their people and not as their masters for there was to be no common authority among the nations to which they were to be responsible in the execution of their trust.

Future international conventions with regard to the control of waterways, with regard to illicit traffic of many kinds, in arms or in deadly drugs, or with regard to the adjustment of many varying international administrative arrangements, could not be assured if the treaty were to provide no permanent common international agency, if its execution in such matters was to be left to the slow and uncertain processes of co-operation by ordinary methods of negotiation.

Need of Common Tribunal.
If the peace conference itself was to be the end of co-operative authority and common counsel among the governments to which the world was looking to enforce justice and give pledges of an enduring settlement, regions like the Saar basin could not be put under a temporary administrative regime which did not involve a transfer of political sovereignty and which contemplated a final determination of its political connection by popular vote to be taken at a distant date, no free city like Danzig could be created which was, under elaborate international guarantees, to accept exceptional obligations with regard to the use of its port and exceptional relations with a state of which it was not to form a part; properly safeguarded plebiscites could not be provided for where populations were at some future date to make choice of what sovereignty they would live under.

No certain and uniform method of arbitration could be secured for the settlement of anticipated disputes or final decision with regard to many matters dealt with in the treaty itself, the long-continued supervision of the task of re-education which Germany was to undertake to complete within the next few years might be entirely broken down, the revision of administrative arrangements and restrictions which the treaty presented but which it was recognized might not prove of lasting advantage or entirely fair if too long enforced, would be impracticable.

The promises governments were making to one another and to the world in which labor was to be dealt with by law not only but in fact as well, would remain a mere promise if there was to be no common tribunal of opinion and judgment to which a liberal statesman could resort for the influence which alone might secure their redemption.

A league of free nations had become a practical necessity. Examine the treaty of peace and you will find that everywhere throughout its manifold provisions its framers have felt obliged to turn to the league of nations as an indispensable instrumentality for the maintenance of the new order it has been their purpose to set up in the world—the world of civilized men.

League Held a Necessity.
That there should be a league of nations to steady the counsels and maintain the peaceful understandings of the world, to make, not treaties alone, but the accepted principles of international law as well, the actual rule of conduct among the governments of the world, has been one of the agreements accepted from the first as the basis of peace with the belligerent countries were agreed that such a league must be created to sustain the settlements that were to be effected. But at first I think there was a feeling among some of them, that while it must be attempted, the formation of such a league was perhaps a counsel of perfection which practical men, long experienced in the world of affairs, must agree to very cautiously and with many misgivings.

It was only as the difficult work of arranging an all but universal adjustment of the world's affairs advanced from day to day, from one stage of conference to another, that it became evident to them that what they were seeking would be little more than something written upon paper, to be interpreted and applied by such methods as the chances of politics might make available, if they did not provide a means of common counsel which all were obliged to accept, a common authority, whose decisions would be recognized as decisions which all must respect.

And so the most practical, the most skeptical among them, turned more and more to the league as the authority through which international action was to be secured, the authority without which as they had come to see it, it would be difficult to give any other international understanding upon which they were to depend for the maintenance of peace.

The fact that the covenant of the league was the first substantive part of the treaty, that it was worked out and agreed upon, while all else was in solution, helped to make the formulation of the rest easier. The conference was, after all, not to be ephemeral. The concert of nations was to continue under a definite covenant which had been agreed upon and which all were convinced was workable. They could go forward with confidence to make arrangements intended to be permanent. The most practical of the conferees were at least the most ready to refer to the league of nations the superintendence of all interests which did not admit of immediate determination, of all administrative problems which were to require a continuing oversight. What had seemed a counsel of perfection had come to seem a plain counsel of necessity. The league of nations was the practical statesman's hope of success in many of the most difficult things he was attempting.

Cry Against War.
And it had validated itself in the thought of every member of the conference as something much bigger, much greater every way, than a mere instrument for carrying out the provisions of a particular treaty. It was universally recognized that all the peoples of the world demanded of the conference that it should create such a continuing concert of free nations as would make wars of aggression and spoliation such as this that has just ended, forever impossible. A cry had gone out from every home in every stricken land from which sons and brothers and fathers had gone forth to the great sacrifice, that such a sacrifice should never again be exacted. It was manifest why it had been exacted. It had been exacted because one nation desired dominion and other nations had known no means of defense except armaments and alliances.

War had lain at the heart of every arrangement of Europe of every arrangement of the world—that preceded the war. Pastive peoples had been told that fleets and armies, which they failed to sustain, meant peace, and they now knew that they had been led to, that fleets and armies had been maintained to promote national ambitions and meant war. They knew that no old policy meant anything else but force, force—always force. And they knew that it was intolerable. Every true heart in the world, and every enlightened judgment demanded that, at whatever cost of independence of action, every government that took thought for its people or for justice or for ordered freedom should lend itself to a new purpose and utterly destroy the old order of international politics. Statesmen might see difficulties, but the people could see none and could break no denial. A war in which they had led while to beat the terror that they conceived in every balance of power must not end in a mere victory of arms and a new balance.

"Hope of Mankind."
The monster that had resorted to arms must be put in chains that could be broken. The united power of the nations must put a stop to aggression, and the world must be given peace. If there was not the will or the intelligence to accomplish that now, there must be another and a final war and the world must be swept clean of every power that could renew the terrors.

The league of nations was not merely an instrument to adjust and remedy old wrongs under a new treaty of peace, it was the only hope for mankind again and again had the demon of war been cast out of the house of the peoples and then swept clean by a treaty of peace, only to prepare a time when he would enter in again with spirits worse than himself. The house must now be given a tenant who could hold it against all such. Convert, indeed, indispensable as statesmen found the newly planned league of nations to be for the execution of present plans of peace and restoration, they saw it in a new aspect before their work was finished. They saw it as the main object of the peace, as the only thing that could complete it or make it worth while. They saw it as the hope of the world, and that hope they did not dare to disappoint. Shall we or any other free people hesitate to accept this great duty? Dare we reject it and break the heart of the world?

Compromises Accepted.
And so the result of the conference of peace, so far as Germany is concerned, stands complete. The difficulties encountered were very many. Sometimes they seemed insuperable. It was impossible to accommodate the interests of so great a body of nations—interests which directly or indirectly affected almost every nation in the world—without many minor compromises. The treaty, as a result is not exactly what we would have written. It is probably not what any one of the national delegates would have written. But results were worked out which on the whole bear test. I think that it will be found that the compromises which were accepted as inevitable nowhere cut to the heart of any principle. The work of the conference squares as a whole, with the principles agreed upon as the basis of the peace as well as with the practical possibilities of the international situations which had to be faced and dealt with as facts.

I shall presently have occasion to lay before you a special treaty with France, whose object is the temporary protection of France from unprovoked aggression by the power with whom this treaty of peace has been negotiated. Its terms link it with this treaty. I take the liberty, how-

FROM SPHINX TO CELEBRATION

Before the Sphinx

Lowell Thomas

From the Sphinx in Egypt to Jerusalem a rocky, difficult journey which took the followers of Moses forty years to cover on foot and which Lowell Thomas, war observer covered by camel, motor, horse, airplane and on foot in a much shorter time. Mr. Thomas accompanied General Allenby on his last into Palestine which broke the backbone of German-Turkish militarism in the Holy Land and precipitated the end of the world war. Being pictured before the Sphinx as a diversion which Napoleon set the example for Mr. Thomas but the great Bonaparte never flew over the Holy Land in an airplane as did this modern traveler. His experiences with the British forces in the Bible land form a part of an interesting travelogue which Mr. Thomas preserved in motion pictures. These give such a vivid idea of the Holy Land that the traveler was engaged to show his pictures and give his travelogues throughout the Methodist Centenary Celebration at Columbus, O., June 20 to July 13. Although Mr. Thomas was booked to appear in only the largest cities, he responded to this opportunity to show to the visitors from hundreds of communities just what the land is like in one field of missionary endeavor, the one made familiar to every Bible student. His motion and still pictures show the beach whereon Samson and Delilah stroled and the city from which this Biblical strong man bore the brazen gates. They show the valley of Aijalon where Joshua commanded the sun to stand still. Striking motion and still views are shown of Joffa and Hebron and Bethany and Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Nazareth, Nablis, Damascus, Beirut, Sidon and the Mount of Olives. They show the hills whence Moses looked down upon the Promised Land, the tombs of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Sarah and Rebecca, the Garden of Gethsemane and a dozen other places made famous in Holy Writ. The pictures portray the actual life of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, showing how thousands were saved from starvation by food sent by America. Thomas tells the story which makes the pictures live. His Holy Land experiences, the most interesting part to the Methodist Centenary visitors, is but a part of his experiences on five battlefronts. He was in Germany at the time of the revolution and took motion pictures in Berlin while fighting was in progress. The acquisition of the Thomas travelogues was regarded as a distinct triumph for the Centenary Celebration.

Centenary Celebration Columbus

POSITIVELY CLOSING SUNDAY, JULY 13

Written by William C. Freeman, Associated with Paul Block, Inc., New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston

One of several policemen on duty at the State Fair Grounds where the Centenary Celebration has been in action since Friday, June 20—day and night—remained that he did not know why he and other officers had been assigned to this work because he said there was really nothing for him and the other officers to do—except perhaps, to assist those who might be overcome by the heat. Quite a tribute to the behavior of a great crowd of people—averaging over 40,000 a day since the Centenary Celebration opened—is it not? The City of Columbus, with its 250,000 population, could not sustain an average attendance in excess of 40,000 daily—therefore, many thousands of visitors had to come from all sections of the country.

As an illustration On the train from Chicago to Columbus I met a man and his wife and three children, who lived in North Dakota. They were on the way to attend the Centenary Celebration. As a matter of fact I met people from practically every state in the Union. The great crowd—over 120,000—that attended the Centenary Celebration on July 4th expressed itself as mightily pleased that the attendance exceeded that at the Prize Fight, Toledo, by more than 70,000. The world sure does move onward, and it seems to be moving in the right direction. The most remarkable scene I have ever witnessed was that on July 4th and 5th, when thousands upon thousands of people patiently stood in line under a burning sun waiting for an opportunity to purchase an admission ticket to see the GRANT, written by Rev. E. E. Crowther, and wonderfully staged.

Another remarkable thing about this Pageant is that the story it tells is founded on life as portrayed in the Bible—and yet thousands of people wanted to see it filling the great Coliseum, with its 7,500 seating capacity every time it was presented.

Another outstanding feature of the Centenary Celebration is that it assembled so many striking attractions that D. W. Griffith—one of the Masters in Motion Picture life—kept a force of experts at the State Fair Ground for more than two weeks taking motion pictures that will introduce patrons of movie picture houses all over the world to the really wonderful events that were a daily part of the exposition.

The Victory Parade on the evening of July 4th, in which over 8,000 people took part was a realization of a dream of ten years ago when the managers of this Centenary Celebration conceived the idea that it would be an inspiring event to show the people of America what had been accomplished by Methodist missionaries in foreign lands.

It is a striking statement that there were as many people in this parade—remember the number 8,000—as the Methodists missionaries had converted during the first fifty years of their efforts in heathen lands. And now it is equally striking to say that converts are made at the rate of 16,000 a month through this one great agency alone.

And think of 50,000 people witnessing this parade! Think also of 7,500 people piling into the Coliseum to see the big Pageant at the same time! Think also of that big tent being filled to capacity at the same time where people went to hear "Bob Jones," the Great Southern Evangelist! Think also of the moving picture houses filling up with interested and eager crowds at the same time! But the one great outstanding feature that towers far and above all others is this:

The Centenary Celebration has brought together in a splendid bond of unity the North and South Divisions of the Methodist Church which have been separated in their activities for many years.

And this fact, coupled with the approval given in rich measure to the Centenary Celebration and its big motive power in world reconstruction by the representatives of other RELIGIOUS FAITHS, is most significant.

A celebration that started on Friday and ends on the 13th—that started to advertise on Friday and ends its 15th advertisement today, Friday, July 11th—certainly defied superstition and came out with flying colors and a glorious success.

OPINION OF ARBITER KLEM

Veteran Umpire Says All Players Are Battling as if Life Depended Upon Outcome.

Take it from Bill Klem, veteran umpire of the National league, the current pennant campaign is going to be one of the most bitterly fought races in the annals of the pastime.

Umpire Bill Klem.

Bill has umpired his way through many seasons, but he declares that not since the days of the old inter-city rivalry between New York and Chicago and New York and Pittsburgh have the players on all of the clubs fought so keenly in every contest to win as they appear to be doing now. "The old game is back," declared Klem; "make no mistake about that. The boys are all battling as if life itself hung upon the outcome of the chase. That is the spirit that makes baseball the most popular of all sports. And while they are fighting every step of the journey there has been a praiseworthy lack of disorderly conduct on the field for which I am sure the fans are grateful."

PLAYED IN GAS MASKS

Hank Gowdy tells of playing one inning of a ball game over in France with the players wearing gas masks, against a team made up of Twenty-sixth division boys. Hank pitched, and of course his team won, 4 to 3, but the wonder of it to Hank and to all others who have worn these gas masks was his center fielder catching a fly while peering through the dim panes.

BASEBALL STORIES

Aik-a will revive its twilight baseball league.

The Salt Lake club has dropped the veteran Ed Willett.

Claiming the pennant now is like dancing around a May pole in December.

Truck Hannah, catcher of the Yankees, is a heavy hitter. He's also a heavy runner.

Jack Tut, the Canadian middle distance amateur runner, is playing baseball with the veteran nine of the Toronto Senior league.

The grand stand managers at Bridgeport are panning Manager Grimes for releasing Outfielder Mitterling and Outfielder Yin.

Cuban Stars baseball team of Havana will shortly begin a tour of cities of the eastern part of this country, opening in New York city.

There is one thing about Fletcher as a shortstop. He plays grounders so few of them bound badly away from him as they do others.

ROGER PECKINPAUGH

THE NEW YORK YANKEES' SHORTSTOP WHO IS GIVING COBB A RUN FOR THE BATTING HONORS OF THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

"But he can't hit!" ... That's been the wall about Peckinpaugh of every dapper when it came to picking the best short stop in baseball. Now that "Peck" is clouting the pill a 350 gait no one can take the honors from him. He is baseball's greatest shortstop and if he keeps hitting at his present rate he will have no rivals for a man in the game can go into deep short and field a ball for an out as first as often as does Peckinpaugh. Possessing a remarkable pair of fielding hands, an uncanny ability to judge bad bounding balls, and a fine throwing arm, up until this season Roger's poor hitting was his only weakness.

But once before, during his eight years in the big show "Peck" had a 300 spurt. It was in 1913, shortly after the "Yanks" got him from Cleveland in a trade for Leivelt and Stump, but it proved to be a bloom or and he soon shipped back to a 250 average. Peckinpaugh is but 28 years old, beginning his big league career with Cleveland in 1909. The following season with Cleveland he got into 15 games, hitting .199. In 1911 he was farmed out to Portland in the Coast league but returned to the Indians in 1913. In looking over "Peck's" American league record it is evident he never had Cobb laying awake night

TRIS SPEAKER BIDS FOR BIGGEST YEAR

Is Hitting Ball Hard and Showing Unusual Amount of Pep.

Playing Shorter Center Field Than Year Ago, Racing Back for Occasional Ones That Go Deep—Strong for Aviation.

Tris Speaker will be more of a star this year than he was a year ago. That is indicated by the form shown by the Indian captain to date. He is hitting the ball harder than a year ago and, if such a thing is possible, is displaying more pep. But that is not all. He is playing a shorter center field than a year ago.

Spoke, as he is universally known in baseball circles, revolutionized center fielding when he adopted a system of playing in close to second base and racing back for the occasional ones hit to deep center. Last year it was commented upon that he was playing a deeper center than usual, and it was said it was because he was slowing up.

Speaker says that when the season is over he will complete the naval aviation course he started last fall.

"I am sorry I quit," Spoke said. "I want to be a full-fledged naval aviator, and I understand those of us who did not complete our course will be given a chance to do so next fall."

And that is not all Spoke intends to do in the aviation game. The first chance he gets Spoke wants to arrange for a flight with Glenn Martin from Cleveland to some town where Cleveland is to play the next day, like Detroit, Chicago or Washington.

STEEL COMPANY IS PROSPEROUS

New York, July 10.—Unfilled orders of the U S Steel Co. since June runs 4,892,855 tons according to a statement made today. This is an increase of 610,545 tons and marks a turn in the tide of the steel industry for the better.

The fire department responded to a still alarm from the Duplex Foundry Company at five o'clock yesterday afternoon to extinguish ignited planks.

A SERIOUS FIRE WAS NARROWLY averted when two rubbish barrels in the rear of the Gorney's refreshment stand on West Broad street became ignited. The fire department extinguished the blaze with chemicals.

EARL HOLCOMBE OF ELYRIA WAS fined $1 and costs by Judge J. P. Duffy at Lorain Thursday. The defendant pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding.

VIEWS OF MANAGER COOMBS

Race for Championship Bunting No Mauve-Tinged Pipe for Any Baseball Aggregation.

Jack Coombs, than whom there is no shrewder man in balldom, has not conceded the bunting to the Giants, not by any stretch of the imagination. Coombs thinks the impending chase will be no mauve-colored pipe for any aggregation. "This is going to be a real slam-bang affair, the pennant race of 1919," said Coombs. "It's no team's fault at this juncture. The Giants are a good club, to be sure, but the Phils and six other clans are going to have something to say as to which will lift the autumn laurels. I predict it will be one of the most bitterly fought races in the recent annals of balldom."

ROOKIE SHOWS REAL CLASS

John Paul Jones Expected to Derive Much Benefit From George Gibson at Toronto.

John Paul Jones, the young pitcher sent by McGraw to the Toronto club, is a boy of much promise and just the sort of a fellow that the Giant leader would keep with him if the player limit permitted.

However, a season in the International league will be of great benefit to the Louisiana hailer, especially in view of the fact that he will be under the tutelage of George Gibson, a past master in the art—and it is an art—of developing young pitchers.

GERBER GOOD "BOX" FIGHTER

Shortstop of St. Louis Browns Acted Sparring Partner for Pugilist Kid Regan.

Walter Gerber, shortstop of the St. Louis Browns, during the team's recent home stay, acted as sparring partner for Pugilist Kid Regan while Regan was training for a fight. Gerber is said to have shown in the workouts that he might have been famous as a box fighter himself had he taken up that branch of sport instead of baseball.

NO PERFECT BALL GAME

When a pitcher hurls a no-run-no-hit, no-man-reached-first game, he is always credited with pitching a perfect game. But a perfect game has never been pitched and, it is fair to assume, one never will be pitched, for a perfect game would mean 27 men retired on strikes on 81 pitched balls. That, and that alone, would be a perfect game.

DIAMOND NOTES

O'Mara is playing a great game at third for Hendricks.

Cy Williams isn't particular where he knocks his home runs.

Manager Connie Mack of the ex-champion Athletic team plays golf.

If Owner McGill only had a couple more Clint Rogges and Cavets there would be nothing to it.

Warm weather loosens up the kinks in the salary arms, but it doesn't loosen up the salary any.

When it comes to driving 'em back to the water bucket prohibition hasn't much on Walter Johnson.

From the eight baseball nines of the Service league of San Francisco an all-star nine will be picked to tour the states and play amateur teams.

The New York Giants have a first baseman under cover in George Kelly, who seems to be finally coming through. He is reported as playing wonderful ball for Rochester.

Pitchers come and go, but some hang on forever. Old Moose Romine looks like a million dollars in the Three-I league and is about the only pitcher the Bloomington club depends on.

In the second game of the Decoration day set-to between St. Paul and Minneapolis the Saint's scored 21 runs, Leo Dressen crossing the plate six times. He drew four bases on balls and singled twice, getting around each time he got on base.

Johnny McGraw says Roger Bresnahan was the greatest catcher he ever saw—always excepting Buck Ewing. Like the Irishman who said, "Pat Clancy is the greatest fighter in the world—but he has a brother who can bate the life out av him."—Toledo Blade.

Des Moines gets Outfielder Horace Milan as part payment for Buzz Murphy, in addition to a good round sum in cash from the Washington treasury. It declined to let Murphy go unless given a good man to safeguard its outfield. Milan should be a bear in the Western league.

ROMINENT BASEBALL PLAYERS POSSESS LITTLE FADS OF ONE KIND OR ANOTHER

Many ball players have fads of one kind and another. A brief list might be instructive.

Lena Blackburne, who has played shortstop on many teams, collects pennants from the various cities he visits.

Joe Benz has an account of every game he has ever pitched pasted away in a scrap book.

Dutch Leonard has a passion for talking machines, and spends much of his spare cash purchasing records.

Strong for Flowers.

Eddie Collins is strong for flowers, and picks up a rose bush here and a new kind of plant there in his garden back in a suburb of Philadelphia.

A large number of players keep scrap books. Ed Walsh has a pile of them large enough to stock a small library. Few players have had so many features written about them as Walsh has enjoyed, and many a day so filed from one to four pages in his book.

Ed also picked up pictures of himself in action, and has fixed up a baseball den at his home in Meriden, Conn., which is said to be one of the finest of its kind in the country.

Eddie Cicotte is another who keeps a scrap book. His fondest hope is some day to place an account of his 30-hit game in this volume. He has nearly everything else.

While on the coast this spring we visited Jack Fournier, former Sox and Yankee, at his home in a Los Angeles hotel, writes Malcolm MacLean in Detroit Free Press. Jack is one of the coast's star players and seems certain to be back in the majors again before the year is out.

His room was bare of ornaments—unless a wardrobe and trunk could be considered such—and the only objects in sight were two scrap books on a table beside the water pitcher.

Many of the clippings in his books refer to him as the Frenchman, which he collects with great delight. "You know," he confided, "I was born in Michigan."

Had Great Time.

"I had a great time when I played with Montreal," he continued. "The French fans took me to their hearts. I actually heard one of them tell another that I couldn't understand any English except a few words like 'ball,' 'strike,' and others used in playing the pastime."

"And I didn't have to buy many dinners in Montreal, either. I had one or more invitations every night at one of the French homes, and I had one swell year of it. Many of them called me Jacques Plonyea, and I could often hear them yelling that at me when I was at bat."

Before closing we might state that the Angels have a hitting trio that compares favorably with many of those in the majors—Fournier bats third, Sam Crawford, former Tiger, fourth, and then comes Rube Ellis, ex-Cardinal.

Cigar Boxes.

Cigar boxes are chiefly made from red cedar, which is grown in central America, Mexico and the West Indies.

Inexorable Law.

THREE ELYRIA BROTHERS IN JAIL; ALL SERVED IN WAR

CASES AGAINST THEM DISMISSED WHEN COURT IS INFORMED OF THEIR RECORD

Lorain, O., July 1.—Mercy season of justice this morning, when Vaughn, Harry and Glen Leonard, three brothers, all enlisted in the service, were arraigned on intoxication charges.

They are Elyria men who came to Lorain Tuesday to celebrate the discharge of the two older boys, Vaughn and Harry, one from the army and one from the navy. Glen, the youngest, is still in the navy, stationed on the battleship Chester, and home on furlough.

According to the police report the boys entered a restaurant owned by Emanuel Slans at 1028 Broadway. The proprietor objected to their conduct and put one of them out. He then claimed that while he was doing this, $9.10 disappeared from the cash register.

Slans called a policeman, who made the arrest.

Harry and Glenn pleaded guilty when arraigned and were sentenced the usual $5 and ten days in the jail. Vaughn denied the charge.

Prosecutor C. A. Callison questioned the three closely and after talking to them, recommended the dismissal of the case.

Judge J. P. Duffy consented and wrote three releases, remarking that three men from the same family who were willing to serve their country might find in the future some wiser way of celebrating a family reunion.

SAW CHANCE FOR WEALTH IN WAR

TRIBUNE HAD MATERIAL BENEFITS IN MIND IN URGING WAR WITH MEXICO.

DIDN'T KNOW OF FORD OFFER

Witness Says He Never Was Informed That Manufacturer Was First to Place Resources at Country's Call.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., July 9.—Teffeny Blake, chief editorial writer of the Chicago Tribune, on his third day of testimony in the Tribune defense, explained the Tribune's regret at the expulsion of Count Von Bernstorff from the country by saying he believed the count was working in the interests of peace for the United States. The Tribune had highly praised the count's "services" to this country.

Under cross-examination by Ford counsel, Mr. Blake testified that the Tribune had consistently argued for war with Mexico, while it discouraged and opposed war with Germany. "In spite of the president's warning and ultimatum the Tribune continued to declare that the submarine issue was not an adequate cause for war. We did not believe it was a sufficient ground for war."

"You were taking the German position, were you not?"

"We were not."

"You were taking the position that Germany wanted this country to take were you not?"

"We were taking the American position."

"Admitting for the present that you may have believed your position was best for the United States, it was the position Germany hoped we would take, was it not?"

"I don't know."

"But we did eventually go to war with Germany on that very issue, didn't we?"

"No; when the president brought the question by treaty was to make the war a democracy."

Not For War. Many.

"Well, even on the broader ground, did the Tribune ever argue for war with Germany?"

"No, we did not."

"When the president ordered the guard to the Mexican border it looked as if the Tribune had won the desire it expressed in the editorial, 'We Ought to Take Mexico,' didn't it?"

"Yes, for a time it did."

"And when you found that Henry Ford still stood in your way you chose the worst term at your command to stigmatize him," said counsel.

"What did the Tribune mean by the expression, 'Fate holds a ripe apple to our lips in Mexico and bitter fruit in Flanders'? Did you have in mind the material benefits which would accrue to the United States?"

"Well, we don't live in the clouds, and—"

"I am not asking you to discuss or defend the expression, just interpret it. Did you have material benefits in mind?"

"Certainly. We are not hypocrites."

"We meant we would get wealth out of attacking Mexico."

"Yes."

"Now your editorial goes on, 'If we win in Germany, what do we win?'"

"Yes, what do we win?" interjected the witness.

"'Blessed if we know,' continued the editorial."

"And blessed if we do know," called out the witness. "We don't know even today."

"Then maybe you want to go back to your old position against war with Germany—is that what you mean?" asked counsel.

"We were against making war on the submarine issue alone."

"Did you know that the saying about embroidering the term 'murderer' across the soldier's breast was not Henry Ford's, but originated with Jane Addams?"

"I didn't know it then and I don't believe it now, said the witness."

"Well, the interviewer who gave currency to that expression has so testified," said Ford counsel.

"Miss Addams is opposed to war, isn't she?"

"Very much opposed to war. The Tribune has nothing against people who are opposed to war. We are opposed to war ourselves."

"Oh, that's what every militarist says; the kaiser said that, too, didn't he?"

"Did you know that Mr. Ford was the first person in the United States to offer himself, all his factories and possessions and all his skill to assist the government in the event of war? Did you know that?"

"I did not know that."

"Your perusal of the Tribune did not give you that information about Mr. Ford, did it?"

"No."

Ford counsel then made tentative inquiry concerning the Tribune's attack on the Red Cross as an octopus, but editorial expressions of this character were withheld from the record until later.

"Fighting Chaplain" is Champion of Army—Y.M.C.A. Athletic Plans

EARL A. BLACKMAN ARMY'S FIGHTING CHAPLAIN

Twenty-four foot ring or four-foot pit—it is all the same to Earl A. Blackman, of the 130th Field Artillery. Before the war he was pastor of a Kansas church. Now he is an army chaplain, and one of the most active champions of the big athletic program which the Y.M.C.A. is working out for the men overseas.

When Blackman needed money to get through college, he put on his ring tops and gave boxing lessons. He fought himself through college, but before he had finished he had decided to enter the ministry. Having won his college bout with adversity, he took another hitch in his belt and started on his second. It was a three-year battle, but the Blackman won again with a good margin. Since then he has not had to use the gloves to earn a living, but he has always remained a staunch friend of athletics, and he is enthusiastic over the outlook for the A.E.F. season.

Organization of scores of baseball "baskets" and other leagues; building of athletic fields, grandstands and boxing parlors, and the maintenance of athletic supplies require a combination of Ban Johnston-Garry Herman-Tex Rickard-W. G. McAdoo to keep them all going, and the army has found him. He is Col. Walt C. Johnson, now Chief Athletic Officer of the A. E. F.

For an associate, Col. Johnson has Edward S. Brown, chief of the Y.M.C.A.'s athletic department and who, as it happened, was the colonel's successor as director of army athletics in the Philippines, in 1910, under Governor General Forbes. Some idea of the magnitude of Brown's part of the work may be had from the fact that, up to date, the "Y" has given to the army overseas more than $2,000,000 in athletic equipment alone.

Boxing holds a prominent part in the army and "Y" program, and the "Fighting Chaplain" of the 130th is one of the sport's best friends. As such, he holds an opinion exactly opposite to that of most of boxing's opponents.

"Boxing is the best form of physical exercise because it makes a man and not a beast," says the chaplain. "No mere physical superiority is necessary; to be a successful boxer, a man must outguess and outwit his opponent."

Several of the doughboys who have been up against the chaplain admit that he is one of the best guessers they ever met.

so much better. "I simply will not have another cooking in this heat," declared Susan.

"What'll I do?" sweet Susan asked, looking this way and that. "I'll have to make do with the food I have in the house."

"I'll have to make do with the food I have in the house," said Susan.

Finally, father, seeing the situation, said: "I'm going to add several more to you. You do no more of this kind of thing. Mother will be the bride in her new dress."

"Where did you get that?" Susan asked.

"I got it from the box of Zu Zu Ginger Snaps."

When children's yearning appetites cry aloud for sweets, there's a happy answer in Zu Zu Ginger Snaps, which appease the sweet-tooth craving, yet meet every demand for wholesome nourishment.

UNCLE SAM POINTS TO OHIO WITH PRIDE

Another War Savings Stamp Record Made Last Month.

Columbus, O.—(Special)—Ohio again is being pointed out to the nation by Uncle Sam for its remarkable War Savings Stamp record. Reports just compiled at Washington for last month show that Ohio has sold double the amount of War Savings Stamps of any other state. Illinois was second, with Pennsylvania third and Texas fourth. Ohio during the first five months of the year has sold 13 per cent of the total sales of War Savings Stamps in the nation; since the beginning of the War Stamp Campaign, Jan. 1, 1918, Ohio has sold 97 per cent of the total sales of the nation. Ohio's quota for this period was only 6 per cent. Last month Ohio sold more stamps than New York and Pennsylvania together, and twice as many as all the New England states combined.

SCHOOL TEACHERS WILL CONTINUE THRIFT STUDY

Columbus, O.—(Special)—Ohio school teachers will continue the teaching of thrift in order that more War Savings Stamps may be sold. Members of the Ohio Teachers' Association, recently in session at Cedar Point, adopted the following resolution: "The association recommends that the plan of thrift as brought about through War Savings banks and thrift organizations in the schools, as a permanent part of school procedure, to the end that thrift may be indicated as a fundamental element of the kind of citizenship the schools are striving to develop."

OHIO WOMEN TO SELL WAR STAMPS IN JULY

Many Counties to Continue Drives Started in June.

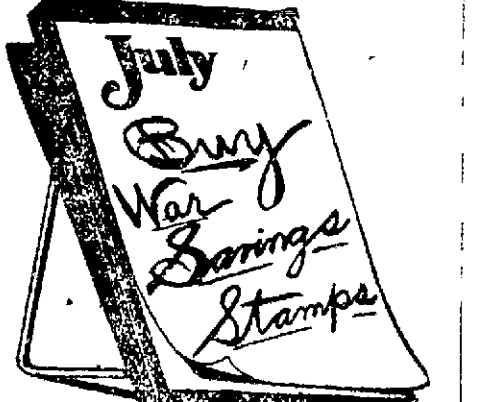

Columbus, O.—(Special)—Reports reaching state War Savings headquarters indicate that the War Stamp drive conducted by women in June has been very successful. Many counties, however, which got a late start, will continue solicitation during July. Of the counties so far reporting in the women's drive, Licking is in the lead with sales approaching $175,000. This record was made through a house to house canvass. Immediately following the women's canvass it is probable that a thrift campaign will be launched to educate Ohio women to the necessity of saving.

War Savings Stamps hold your money for opportunity's call.

FLORY IN LEAD

Noses Out Leader in War Savings Stamp Contest.

Columbus, O.—(Special)—Arthur Vanosdall of Ashland, who has held first place in the mail carriers' War Savings Stamp sales contest in Ohio since the contest started two months ago, has been nosed out of first place by A. H. Flory of Wauseon. Vanosdall has dropped back to fourth place. E. A. Keller of Chillicothe has jumped into second place, with William Lutz of Jeromesville third. Flory's sales now total $85,045.
